Design respectful transition approaches

In partnership with students, create effective, respectful ways to share information about students between teachers and between schools.

Consider how you:

- maintain the privacy and confidentiality of all student information
- discuss with the student, parent, or whānau any considerations regarding the sharing of information (including self-disclosure)
- decide what information needs to be shared and with whom
- gain consent if student information needs to be shared
- ensure a student's preferred name and gender is entered correctly on school management systems and classroom rolls
- induct new staff, students, and families on the school's safety and wellbeing policies, programmes, and procedures.

This information was downloaded/printed from the Ministry of Education's website "Inclusive Education". Except where otherwise noted it is Crown Copyright 2018.

Information on the Inclusive Education website is regularly updated so we recommend you check the website version of this information to ensure it remains current.