Match learning to children's development

Develop classroom programmes that respect the diverse values and beliefs of students and of the community.

In years 1 to 3

- Children are interested in pregnancy and birth. Some may be aware of the connection between “making babies” and sexual pleasure.
- Some children will become aware that not everyone is heterosexual.
- Children have a growing awareness of sanctioned gender roles, such as “girls don’t like motorbikes” or “boys don’t cry”.

Focus areas for this age group include:

- friendships, belonging and the different types of relationships
- changes in growth and identifying body parts
- questioning and discussing gender stereotypes and norms
- Understanding personal identities and how they can differ
- identifying stereotypes
- contributing to and following inclusive guidelines
- sharing and expressing feelings.

In years 4 to 8

- All children need to know about pubertal change before it happens
- Sometimes children feel anxious about puberty
- Children may go into and out of gender segregation, applying harsh gender stereotypical rules and censure to each other’s behaviour
- Some children will have an interest in expressing their sexuality in dress
- Children may begin to show an interest in ‘who loves who’

Focus areas for this age group include:

- pubertal change as well how to support ourselves and others through that change
- developing a positive body image
- how pubertal change can impact on wellbeing, and how it relates to social norms around gender and sexuality
- how social messages and stereotypes about relationships, sexuality, and gender affect your wellbeing, and the wellbeing of others
- planning strategies for positive relationships
- messages related to gender, sexuality, and diversity.

Tips for developing programmes

Successful programmes are:

- ✓ well planned, informed by theory and evidence, and up-to-date
- ✓ integrated into the curriculum, with clear achievement objectives identified
- ✓ aimed at influencing specific risk factors/protective factors/core competencies
- ✓ focused on developing personal and social skills
- ✓ developmentally, personally, and culturally appropriate
- ✓ designed to include critical thinking and reflection
- ✓ not focused solely on dangers, risks, and prevention but explore the meanings associated with sex and sexuality for individuals and society
- ✓ assessed according to learning (not behaviour)
- ✓ connected with the social worlds of children and young people
- ✓ informed by the needs and perspectives of students
- ✓ linked with families and communities
- ✓ considerate of environmental influences and contemporary issues and practices
- ✓ designed using active and interactive teaching methods, including inquiry-based learning
- ✓ planned and delivered by teachers who have the requisite knowledge and the appropriate skills, values, and qualities
- ✓ resourced appropriately, including in relation to teachers' professional development needs
- ✓ supported by documented guidelines and school-wide practices.
