

Inclusive Education

From

Guide: Supporting Māori students

Strategy: Build a culturally responsive environment

Suggestion: Integrate te reo Māori and tikanga Māori into your classroom programme

Date

24 January 2019

Link

www.inclusive.tki.org.nz/guides/supporting-maori-students/consider-ways-to-integrate-te-reo-maori-and-tikanga-maori-into-your-classroom-programme

Design culturally responsive learning contexts

Creating culturally responsive learning contexts and co-constructing learning enables every student to bring their experiences into the classroom context.

Provide opportunities for Māori students who speak te reo Māori to teach the class some basic vocabulary.

Include holidays and festivals that are important to your Māori students in learning activities.

Establish classroom communication practices that include te reo Māori.

Support Māori students to understand new vocabulary or unfamiliar instructions by providing visual cues and translating key words into te reo Māori.

Identify how you can specifically include a Māori component into curriculum topics.

Engage with the Māori school community and whānau to bring their knowledge and expertise into the school.

This information was downloaded/printed from the Ministry of Education's website "Inclusive Education". Except where otherwise noted it is Crown Copyright 2018.

Information on the Inclusive Education website is regularly updated so we recommend you check the website version of this information to ensure it remains current.

